This position is based in Fresno, California – a city with a quality of life that is uniquely Californian, yet surprisingly affordable. Limitless recreational opportunities and spectacular scenery are accessible in a community with abundant affordable housing.

While there is so much to see and do in Fresno, the city is ideally located for fast, convenient getaways to places such as the majestic Sierra National Forrest as well as the scenic Central Coast, which is a drivable destination within three hours. Fresno is the only major city in the country with proximity to three national parks – including the renowned Yosemite National Park.
